

Good Luck Can Come to Everyone

Back in the 1920s there was a Broadway show called GOOD NEWS.
Jean Arthur played in the 1947 film, by the same name, I believe.

One of the featured songs was "The Best Things in Life are Free":

The moon belongs to everyone, the best things in life are free.

The stars, they shine from everywhere;

They shine there for you and me ...

... And Love can come to everyone; the best things in life are free."

Now, fast forward to today – and think of Good Luck as Free.

Good Luck Can Come to Everyone

Sung to the tune of "The Best Things in Life Are Free"

Words by Richard "Dick" Muther, November 2010

Good plans belong to everyone,

The best things in life are free.

Results, they can be marvelous,

Just plan them with P By D.

The size of the project,

And formula-based plan,

A model that works

With Fundamentals that can ...

Good Luck can come to everyone,

When planned what it ought to be.

*I don't think we can compete with LOVE,
but I believe Good Luck
can be a close second.*
